

Part 1

In the heart of the endless desert
Beyond the mountain's gaze,
There comes, at last, a place of rest,
And then a hedge-grown maze.

Part 2

Under the caverns of <insert name>
And under the jungle beneath,
Under the cries and under the screams
Of those who were once bereaved,
I'll meet you here, at last, my friend:
A pier on an icy sea.

"Get off the bridge that enters the void,
Forsake the limitless plains,
Look away from the house of love's paradox and Infinity's endless domain."

Forget your hurt, forget your heart,
Subvert the watchful eye.
Once was an broken, forgot paradise:
Pandora's paradox lie.

Part 3

At the end of the endless desert land
Beneath the raging sea
In the deepest part of the deepest ravine
Somebody waits for me.
A pier on a frozen sea.